W.K.Kellogg Foundatin Community Leadership Network Fellow

Today's challenges require leadership that can bridge the divides in our society. Now more than ever, we must all act in big and small ways to address structural inequities and help people heal from the effects of racism.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation Community Leadership Network with the Center for Creative Leadership is an innovative fellowship for local leaders to connect, grow and lead transformational change on behalf of children, families and communities.

The class includes tribal leaders, elected officials, health practitioners, youth advocates, educators, business people, attorneys, civil rights activists, conservationists, and faith leaders.

More than 800 people applied to the WKKF Community Leadership Network program. From that pool, 80 people were selected.

The WKKF Community Leadership Network is unique for its focus on: 1) advancing racial equity and racial healing in communities, 2) marshalling our collective resources and efforts to ensure all children have the opportunity to thrive, and 3) fostering a connected network of local leaders to drive transformational change.

I am looking forward to the opportunity to connect, grow and lead transformative change on behalf of children and families as a W.K.Kellogg Community Leadership Network fellow.

There are four selected cities with groups forming: Michigan, Mississippi, New Mexico, and New Orleans in each group are about 12 local representatives. For more information go to www.wkkfcln.org

Thank you to the Tulane University School of Medicine and Bishop Thompson for their support in my nomination and selection as a team member of WKKKCLN.
